THE LAW OF TRACING

Mohammud Jaamae Hafeez-Baig
Jordan English

THE FEDERATION PRESS

The law of tracing determines when one right stands in place of another for the purposes of certain personal or proprietary claims. It is an important part of the law of property and trusts, and the law of remedies. This book aims to provide a comprehensive account of the law of tracing.

It offers clear answers to fundamental questions such as 'what is tracing?' and 'does tracing create new rights?', while also explaining in detail the tracing rules and the application of those rules in hard cases.

Mohammud Jaamae Hafeez-Baig

Biography

Mohammud Jaamae Hafeez-Baig is a barrister at Level Twenty Seven Chambers in Brisbane. He maintains a commercial and public law practice encompassing equity and trusts, civil fraud and asset recovery claims, contract law, administrative law, corporations law, consumer law, insolvency, and succession law. Prior to coming to the Bar, Jaamae was the Associate to the Hon Justice Patrick Keane AC at the High Court of Australia, and an Associate to the Hon Justice John Bond and the Hon Justice Peter Lyons at the Supreme Court of Queensland.

Jaamae writes on topics spanning private and commercial law. He holds a Bachelor of Laws (Hons I, University Medal) and a Master of Laws from the University of Queensland, and a Bachelor of Civil Law (Dist) from the University of Oxford (Magdalen College).

Jordan English

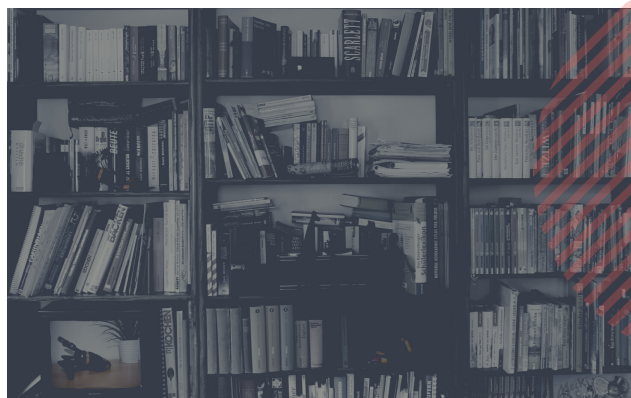

Biography

Jordan English is a Stipendiary Lecturer in Law at St Hilda's College Oxford, and from October 2021 will take up a Supernumerary Teaching Fellowship in Law at St John's College, Oxford. He teaches all areas of private law, including contract, land, and trusts at an undergraduate level and commercial remedies and restitution of unjust enrichment at the postgraduate level.

Before coming to Oxford, Jordan worked as a solicitor at King & Wood Mallesons and as an Associate to the Hon Justice James Edelman at the High Court of Australia. He holds a Bachelor of Laws (Hons I, University Medal) and a Bachelor of Commerce (Accounting) from the University of Queensland, and a Bachelor of Civil Law (Dist) from the University of Oxford (Magdalen College). Jordan is currently completing a DPhil in Law at the University of Oxford (Magdalen College).

'With a masterful grasp of the case law, the authors engage with all the leading cases and are not afraid to criticise what they see as doctrinal confusion in particular areas'.
